

You Want Our Money, Etc.

We want your produce. An even exchange is good for both of us, but we will make it a little better for you by paying you the highest market price for your produce of all kinds. Why ship it away yourself and take what you can get when you can better afford to sell to us and get good prices and quick money? We buy for cash all that the farmer raises in the way of produce, poultry, eggs, etc. We retail to the consumer at a very small profit. It pays both the producer and the consumer to deal with us. Everything to eat, wear and use.

mental economy and a relentless pursuit of those who take advantage of postwar conditions and are demanding and receiving outrageous profits.

The Tariff.

We reaffirm the traditional policy of the Democratic party in favor of a tariff for revenue only and confirm the policy of having tariff revisions upon the intelligent consent of a non-partisan commission, rather than upon the demands of selfish interests, temporarily held in abeyance.

Budget System.

In the interest of economy and good administration, we favor the creation of an effective budget system that will function in accord with the principles of the constitution.

Agricultural Interests.

To the great agricultural interests of the country the Democratic party does not think it necessary to make promises. It already is rich in its record of things actually accomplished.

In the first term of this Democratic administration the national bank act was so altered as to authorize loans of five years' maturity on improved farm lands. Later, was established a system of farm loan banks, from which the borrowings already exceed $300,000,000 and under which the interest rate to farmers has been materially reduced as to drive out of business the farm loan sharks who formerly subsisted by extortion upon the great agricultural interests of the country.

Thus it was a Democratic congress in the administration of a Democratic president which enabled the farmers of America for the first time to obtain credit upon reasonable terms and insure their opportunity for the future development of the nation's agricultural resources.

We favor such legislation as will conform to the primary producers of the nation the rights of collective bargaining and the right of cooperative handling and marketing of the products of the workshop and the farm and such legislation as will facilitate the expansion of our farm products.

We favor comprehensive studies of farm production costs and the unencumbered publication of facts found in such studies.

Labor and Industry.

The Democratic party is now, as ever, the firm friend of honest labor and the promoter of progressive industry. It established the department of labor at Washington and a Democratic president called to his official council board the first practical working man who ever held a cabinet portfolio. Under this administration have been established employment bureaus to bring the man and the job together; have been peacefully determined many bitter disputes between capital and labor; were passed the child labor act; the workman's compensation act (the extension of which we advocate so as to include laborers engaged in loading and unloading ships and in interstate commerce); the eight-hour law, the act for vocational training and a code of other wholesome laws affecting the liberties and bettering the conditions of the laboring classes. In the department of labor the Democratic administration established a woman's bureau, which a Republican congress destroyed by withholding appropriations.

In private industrial disputes we are opposed to compulsory arbitration as a method plausible in theory but a failure in fact. With respect to government services we hold distinctly that the rights of the people are paramount to the right to strike. However, we profess scrupulous regard for the conditions of public employment and pledge the Democratic party to instant inquiry into the pay of government employees and equally speedy regulations designed to bring salaries to a just and proper level.

Woman Suffrage.

We endorse the proposed nineteenth amendment of the constitution of the United States, granting equal suffrage to women. We congratulate the legislatures of thirty-five states which have already ratified said amendment and we urge the Democratic governors and legislatures of Tennessee, North Carolina and Florida and such states as have not yet ratified the federal suffrage amendment to unite in an effort to complete the process of ratification and secure the thirty-sixth state in time for all the women of the United States to participate in the fall election. We commend the effective advocacy of the measure by President Wilson.

Disabled Soldiers.

The federal government should treat with utmost consideration every disabled soldier, sailor and marine of the world war, whether his disability be due to wounds received in line of action or to health impaired in service; and for the dependents of the brave men who died in line of duty, the government's tendered comfort and riched bounty should be their recompense.

We believe that no more high or valued privilege can be afforded to an American citizen than to become a freshwater in the soil of the United States, and to that end we pledge our party to the enactment of further surveys and maps and legislation which will afford to the men who toil for America the opportunity to become land and home owners under conditions affording genuine government assistance strengthened by needless difficulties of red tape or adverse financial investment.

MAKING THE SURVEYS FOR IMMENSE STORAGE PROJECT

Investigators from the reclamation service are making water surveys in Duchesne county to enable them to store a hundred thousand acre-feet of water. One proposed site for a dam is above Duchesne on the Strawberry river, where drillers will test for bedrock. Another probable location is on Rock Creek, where the Starvation dam will be inspected by an engineer of the reclamation service.

The Railroads.

The railroads were subjected to rigid control as a war measure, with still more rigor than the swift transport of troops, munitions and supplies. When human life and national lives were at stake, profits could not be considered, and it is not. Federal operation, however, was marked by an efficiency and efficiency that minimized loss and resulted in savings and increased revenues. The equipment used was not only greatly improved but substantially reduced. Utilizing methods and procedures, betterments and improvements, the railroads could operate without the high rates that private control would have forced necessarily and labor was treated with an exact justice that assured the railroads' concession that victory demanded. The fundamental purpose of federal control was achieved, that is, and apparently, and at far less cost to the taxpayers than would have been the case under private operation. Investments in railroad properties were not once saved by government operation, but given sufficient encouragement, retained their properties until improved in every physical and executive details. A general tax was recently introduced.

The president's recommendation of reason to private ownership gave the Republicans a solid vote in which to enact the necessary legislation. The bonds had six months to formulate the laws, and another six months was required by the Republicans in equality wage debate. As a consequence the Republicans all went to the president in the closing hours of Congress and he was forced in a choice between the choice of a veto and compromise in the measure submitted. However, grace had been given to the administration.

They should do a fair and complete test of the law until careful and mature action by Congress may cure its defects and insure a thorough, effective transportation system under private ownership without government subsidy at the expense of the taxpayers of the country.

Improved Highways.

Improved roads are of vital importance not only to commerce and industry, but also to agriculture and rural life. The federal road act of 1916, enacted by a Democratic congress, represented the first systematic effort of the government to insure the building of an adequate system of roads in this country.

We favor a continuance of the present federal aid plan under existing federal and state agencies, amended so as to include as one of the elements in determining the ratio in which the several states shall be entitled to share in the fund the area of any public lands therein.

We strongly favor the increased use of the motor vehicle in the transportation of the mails and urge the removal of the restrictions imposed by the Republican congress on the use of the motor devices in mail transportation in rural territories.

We desire to congratulate the American people upon the return of our merchant marine, which must now maintain its former place in the world.

*Our present facilities for distribution by rail are inadequate and the promotion of transportation by water is imperative.

We therefore favor a liberal and comprehensive policy for the development and utilization of our harbors and interior水ways.

Reclamation of Arid Lands.

By wise legislation and progressive administration we have transformed the government reclamation projects, representing an investment of $100,000,000, from a condition of impeded nature and loss of confidence in the ability of the government to carry through such large enterprises to a condition of demonstrated success, whereby formerly arid and wholly unproductive lands now sustain 40,000 prosperous families and have an annual crop production of more than $10,000,000 not including the crops grown on a million acres outside the projects supplied with storage water from government works.

We favor ample appropriations for the continuation and extension of this great work of home building and internal improvement along the same general lines to the end that all government projects shall be built, and waters now running to waste shall be made to provide homes and add to the food supply, power resources and taxable property, with the government ultimately reimbursed for the entire outlay.

The Democratic party heartily endorses the creation and work of the federal trade commission in establishing a fair field for competitive business, free from restraints of trade and monopoly, and recommends amending of the statutes concerning its activities so as to grant it authority to prevent the unfair use of patents in restraint of trade.

Livestock Markets.

For the purpose of insuring just and fair treatment in the great interstate livestock market and thus instilling confidence in growers through which production would be stimulated and the price of meats to consumers ultimately reduced, we favor the enactment of legislation for the supervision of such markets by the national government.

Mexico.

The United States is the neighbor and friend of the majority of the three Americas. In a very special sense, our international relations in this hemisphere should be characterized by good will and free from any possible suspicion as to our national purposes.

The administration, remembering always that Mexico is an independent nation and that permanent stability in her government and her institutions could come only from the consent to the several states whose economic situation or internal conditions make this policy and the enforcement of the laws enacted pursuant thereto of particular concern we pledge our support.

The Postal Service.

The efficiency of the postal department has been vindicated against a malicious and designing assault by the efficiency of its operation. Its record refutes its assailants. Their values are enhanced and their charges have decreased.

We commend the work of the Post Office Commission on the reclassification of salaries of postal employees recently constituted, which commission was created by a Democratic administration. The Democratic party has always favored, and still continues to favor, the fair and just treatment of all government employees.

Free Speech and Press.

We resent the unfounded reproaches directed against the Democratic administration for alleged interference with the freedom of the press and freedom of speech.

Conclusion.

Noticing that we have kept the Democratic faith and tested our claims to the confidence of the people not upon grandiose promises, but upon the solid performances of our party, we submit our record to the nation's consideration and let the pledges of this platform be appraised in the light of that record.
